Required Formation Seminars 2002-2003

Authentic Movement
with Anna Binswanger-Healy
Thursdays from 11:15 AM–1:15 PM beginning date to be announced, in the Upper Group Room (15 meetings)

Dream Seminar
with Gayle Burns
Monday from 7-9 PM beginning September 8 and ending December 15 in the Seminar Room at The Centre.

Dream Seminar
with Adam Crabtree
Mondays from 7-9 PM beginning September 8 and ending December 15 in Room A at The Centre.

Pre-requisite: Three years in the Training Psychotherapy Group

Adam offers these remarks on the Dream Seminar:

"The Dream Seminar is a practical approach to dream interpretation. The dreams of the participants form the material of the seminar, one dream per meeting. Interpretation comes from the dreamer and from the other seminar members. Interpretation is not based on a particular theory of dreams, symbols, or the psyche. Rather, the idea is to learn to trust one's intuition and listen to its promptings insofar as they relate to the dream at hand, whether one's own dream or that of another."

Elective Formation Seminars 2003-2004

Transference and Countertransference
with Peter Dales
It is a given that the twin concepts of transference and countertransference are fundamental to the psychoanalytical method. It is true also that both of these concepts have undergone an evolution of understanding throughout the twentieth century and are still subject to various, sometimes elusive and confusing definition.

This course will concentrate on a selection of major texts from the psychoanalytic tradition (from Freud to the Intersubjectivists) in an attempt to familiarize the student with that tradition and to help clarify each person’s own understanding of the nature and the interdependence of transference and countertransference. To this latter end, clinical material from one’s own work will be welcome. The major texts to be used are:

Additional copied material will be handed out. This seminar will meet monthly on Sundays from 10 AM -1:30 PM beginning on September 4 at 123 Admiral Road

The Practicum

Successful completion of the Practicum is a pre-requisite before entering supervision.
In 2003-2004, Adam Crabtee will lead the practicum from 5:30-7:30 PM, beginning Monday September 8 in Room A at The Centre (30 meetings)

Supervision Seminars 2003-2004

Please indicate three choices your order of preference on the registration form for each of the seminars. Omit a preference only for a seminar that is impossible for you.

Each seminar meets for a total of sixty hours.

Peter Dales Thursdays 7:30-9:30 PM beginning September 18 at 123 Admiral Road.

Anna Binswanger-Healy & Jim Healy Mondays 3-5:30 PM in Room A beginning September 8.

Ken Ludlow Friday from 2 to 4:30 PM, three Fridays a month, beginning September 12 at 40 Rainsford Road

Concentrations 2003-2004

Daseinsanalysis: The Influence of Martin Heidegger’s Thinking on the Practice of Psychotherapy with Anna Binswanger-Healy and Cathleen Hoskins

In this one-year concentration, we will explore how Heidegger’s analysis of human existence (Da-sein) can shape the day-to-day practice of psychotherapy. Readings will include passages from Being and Time. Students are welcome to bring clinical issues and examples from their experiences of therapy.

Relational Psychoanalysis: Stephen Mitchell with Gayle Burns

Relational theory will be explored through Stephen Mitchell’s writings and selected seminal papers of contributors to this perspective. Themes include: agency, creation of meaning, self-organization, attachment to others, relational conflict, influence, intention, imagination, co-construction, impasse and transformation in the therapeutic relationship. Participants will choose a personally relevant focus for seminar presentations and their subsequent paper, journal or creative project. Texts include Mitchell’s Relational Concepts in Psychoanalysis and Mitchell and Aron’s Relational Psychoanalysis: The Emergence of a Tradition.

Working with Dreams with Sharon MacIsaac McKenna

In this concentration we will be discussing some contemporary and classic literature on dreams, notably by Christopher Bollas (Shadow of the Object) and James Grotstein (Who is the Dreamer Who Dreams the Dream?) and Freud (Interpretation of Dreams). Copies of additional readings for the course, including selections from Grotstein, will be made available. Those participating are asked to select a client whose dreams they will focus on and discuss in turn, and of course confidentially, in the seminar. Also, since the best foundation for listening to others’ dreams is faithful work with one’s own, participants are asked to carry on this personal work privately.

Graduate Seminar 2003-2004

The Influence of Hans Loewald on the Development of our Profession with Anna Binswanger-Healy & Jim Healy

Jonathan Lear writes in Open Minded (1998) that Hans Loewald “will increasingly be recognized as one of the handful of significant psychoanalytic thinkers after Freud.” Loewald has written about himself: “Philosophy has been my first love and I gladly affirm its influence on my way of thinking…Freud is close enough to my generation to have been a commanding living force as I grew up and became a psychiatrist. He has remained for me, through his writing, that living presence.”

Out of the conjunction of a love for philosophy and a deep respect for Freud grew a series of articles written between 1949 and 1988, which have stimulated Anna and myself in our ongoing efforts to be at ease in this “impossible profession”. We are offering this seminar to psychotherapists who have been practicing long enough to want to re-examine the subtleties of the Freudian tradition as Loewald reflects on them in his erudite and illuminating writings. We find he advances Freud’s thinking, but where he must, he differs with Freud, a testament to Loewald’s respect for the process of individuals’ thinking together about common questions.

We hope in this seminar that each of us in this seminar will speak boldly, but with that same respect for the thinking of the other participants. There will also be room for illustrative examples from each of our work with clients. How could we think in these areas without including them, our most intimate partners in this endeavour we call psychotherapy?

Required Reading: The Essential Loewald: Collected Papers and Monographs. A Norman Quist Book (soft cover), University Publishing Group, Hagerstown, MD, 2000

Meets monthly n the second Friday from 2:30-4:30 PM, beginning September 12 in Room A.
In May and June 2004 there will be a Saturday morning on the Toronto Island at times to be chosen during the September meeting.

PreRequisite: For Practising Therapists. T.I.S. Students with a special interest in Loewald may be admitted by interview if spaces are available.
