Jung Concentration 2022-2023

The profundity of Carl Jung's psychotherapeutic work was largely due to his reliance on intuition in his perception of his clients' inner life. Jung called intuition "perception via the unconscious," as opposed to perception by the senses.

"In intuition a content presents itself whole and complete, without our being able to explain or discover how this content came into existence." That is what is called intuition, "a sort of divination, a sort of miraculous faculty."

Jung believed that to rely on sense perception and rational analysis alone is blindness. In this Concentration, we will study his ideas about intuition and explore how they apply in the practice of psychotherapy.
